This book belongs to

bookdash.org

Every child should own a hundred books by the age of five. To that end, Book Dash gathers creative volunteers to create new African storybooks that anyone can freely print, translate and distribute. Then we work with partners to give those books to preschool children to own.

Jock and Me

Jock is an old dog.

His ears are floppy.

His legs are bendy.

His eyes are cloudy.

But he still runs fast!

And his smile is wide.

A watercolor illustration depicting a scene at sunset. In the center, a man wearing an orange jumpsuit, a grey beanie, and black boots walks towards the right, holding a long wooden stick. To his left, a light-colored dog with a bushy tail walks in the same direction. To the right of the man, a young child in a red and white striped shirt and blue pants walks towards the right. They are walking on a dirt path next to a rustic wooden fence made of vertical posts and horizontal rails. The background features rolling hills under a large, bright orange sun that is low on the horizon. The sky is a mix of soft orange, yellow, and grey tones, suggesting the time is dusk. The overall style is soft and painterly, with visible brushstrokes and a warm, atmospheric feel.

When the sun goes down

he walks along the fence with Tatomkhulu.

They greet their friends.

They count the sheep.

They check the gates.

Jock sleeps outside.
When it rains, he sleeps under the bakkie.

He loves Tatomkhulu.

He loves chicken.
Sometimes he gets some!

He also loves me.
