Ouma's amazing flowers

This book belongs to

bookdash.org

Every child should own a hundred books by the age of five. To that end, Book Dash gathers creative volunteers to create new African storybooks that anyone can freely print, translate and distribute. Then we work with partners to give those books to preschool children to own.

Ouma's amazing flowers

Laurie Janey · Amber Tak · Roulé le Roux

Ouma has a window box
full of amazing flowers.
Robyn wants to pick
them all!

Please don't pick the flowers, Robyn!
Ouma loves to see them when she opens her curtains.

Butterflies dance
around the petals.
It's so lovely to have these visitors.

The bees use the flowers to make delicious honey.

The flowers bring
joy to everyone
who walks past
Ouma's house.

The neighbour likes
to smell them when
he visits for tea.

Sometimes,
sunbirds drink the sweet nectar from
the flowers.

Look, a tiny beetle!
It shines in the sun.
And there's a fat
caterpillar!

Please don't pick Ouma's
flowers, Robyn!
They won't stay fresh
very long.

“I won’t pick them,
Ouma,” says Robyn,
even though she really
wants to.

She feels a little bit sad!

Ouma doesn't want
Robyn to be sad.

“Okay, Robyn,” says
Ouma. “You can pick
your favourite flower.”

“And I have an idea...
Let’s plant more
flowers together!”
