

Tlotlego's Tea Party

Nicolene Louw

Laura de Lange

Ashlyn Atkinson

Tlotlego's Tea Party

This book belongs to

Every child should own a hundred books by the age of five. To that end, Book Dash gathers creative professionals who volunteer to create new, African storybooks that anyone can freely translate and distribute. To find out more, and to download beautiful, print-ready books, visit bookdash.org.

Tlotlego's Tea Party

Illustrated by Nicolene Louw

Written by Laura de Lange

Designed by Ashlyn Atkinson

Edited by Nabeela Kalla

with the help of the Book Dash participants in the Virtual Book Dash on 15 May 2021.

ISBN: 978-1-77623-154-6

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 Licence (<http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0/>). You are free to share (copy and redistribute the material in any medium or format) and adapt (remix, transform, and build upon the material) this work for any purpose, even commercially. The licensor cannot revoke these freedoms as long as you follow the following license terms:

Attribution: You must give appropriate credit, provide a link to the license, and indicate if changes were made. You may do so in any reasonable manner, but not in any way that suggests the licensor endorses you or your use.

No additional restrictions: You may not apply legal terms or technological measures that legally restrict others from doing anything the license permits.

Notices: You do not have to comply with the license for elements of the material in the public domain or where your use is permitted by an applicable exception or limitation.

No warranties are given. The license may not give you all of the permissions necessary for your intended use. For example, other rights such as publicity, privacy, or moral rights may limit how you use the material.

Tlotlego's Tea Party

Nicolene Louw

Laura de Lange

Ashlyn Atkinson

Tlotlego is hosting a tea party for the WHOLE family.

“You, me, Mama, and Papa.
And your little sister, Tshiamo.”

“How many people are coming for tea, Koko?”

1
2
3
4
5

Tlotlego counts the teacups as he takes them from the kitchen.

“One, two, three, four, and one for Koko!”

Tlotlego goes to the stoep and places the teacups down on the table.

“One, two, three, four, and ... ?”

“I only see four cups,” says Koko,
“but we are five people.”

“When I was in the kitchen before,
there were five cups!” Tlotlego exclaims.

Tlotlego counts the pretty little plates
as he takes them from the cupboard.

“One, two, three, four, and five!

There’s a plate for each of us.”

Tlotlego goes to the stoep and places the plates next to the teacups.

“One, two, three, four, and ... ?”

“I only see four plates,” says Koko,
“but we are five people.”

Tlotlego counts the biscuits as he takes them from the jar.

“One, two, three, four, and five!”

Tlotlego goes to the stoep and places the biscuits on the plates.

“One, two, three, four, and ... ?”

“I only see four biscuits,” says Koko,

“but we are five people.”

Tlotlego is very confused.
He knows he has been counting correctly.

Before he had five biscuits, and now there are only four.

HOW did the biscuits become less?

Tlotlego counts the sugar cubes as he takes them from the jar.

“One, two, three, four, and five!”

1 2 3
4

Tlotlego goes to the stoep and places the sugar cubes on the table.

This time, he is sure he hears a giggle.

“One, two, three, four, and ... ?”

“Five!” shouts a voice from under the table.

Tlotlego bends down to look under the table.
To his shock, he sees a complete tea set laid out under the table!

There are the missing teacup, plate, biscuit, and sugar cube.

When Mama and Papa come home from work, they all have tea on the stoep.

One, two, three of them having tea at the table,

and two of them having tea below!

