The jungle potluck

Ririro

Once upon a time, in a lush and vibrant jungle, there lived a group of animal friends who loved nothing more than spending time together and exploring the jungle. There was a clever monkey named Mick, a brave lion named Leo, a friendly elephant named Ella, and a clever snake named Sam.

One day, the animal friends decided to have a potluck dinner to celebrate their friendship. They each agreed to bring their signature dish to share with the group. They also invited all their friends and families and asked them to bring a dish too. It would be one big festive feast!

Mick, the clever monkey, decided to bring a delicious fruit salad made with all sorts of juicy and colourful jungle fruits. He made sure to use all the favourite fruit of his friends like papaya, mango and banana. Leo, the brave lion, decided to bring his famous grilled antelope steaks, which were always a hit at his lion parties. He spent all day trying to hunt down the juiciest antelope, but then he realized the antelope was also invited to the potluck and felt bad. So he went to pick some cacao beans and made a delicious chocolate pie that surely everyone would enjoy. Ella, the friendly elephant, decided to make a giant pot of her famous peanut and banana stew, which was everyone's favourite. And Sam, the clever snake, first wanted to bring some nice crunchy rodents, which were always enjoyed by the snake children, but he thought about his friends and changed his mind. He decided to bring coconut cocktails!

As the sun began to set, the four animal friends and all their family and other friends gathered around the potluck table, which was set up under a big banana tree in the jungle. They had decorated the table with beautiful tropical flowers like the Orchid and Passion flowers and they had put some glow in the dark worms in jars for lightning. The worms didn't mind it as they could be useful and enjoy the dinner at the same time. It was a beautiful sight!

They all oohed and ahed as each animal brought out their signature dish and placed it on the table.

The potluck dinner was a huge success, and everyone had a great time eating and chatting with their friends and making new friends. Mick, Leo, Ella, and Sam were all so happy to be able to share their special dishes with their friends and to celebrate their friendship in such a fun and delicious way.

As the night went on and the stars came out, the animal friends got some coffee and tea straight from the trees and sat around the campfire, singing and telling stories. They knew that they would always be the best of friends.
